Democrats Up To Old Tricks

tion which are now prevalent. In 1916 the registration was 12,827. Every political worker in St. Louis knows it should have been 13,000. But because of the disastrous illegal Democratic tactics in 1916, in the very district where the operation has again started, it was impossible to get out a full Negro representation.

Realize Patriotic Duty

Patriotism is the heroism that has helped make this country the greatest in the world. It is the duty of every citizen to do their duty without flinching. They have worked to the front in every war activity, where permitted, bought Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps to the limit, contributed to the Salvation Army and the Red Cross, and it should have been expected that every man would now, if ever before, awaken to the fact that he is a part of this government and it is his patriotic duty to exercise his right to choose the men to represent him in the public places of trust, to make and enforce the laws which will insure freedom.

If there are a few cases of false registration, it must be Democratic, as the Republican party never sanctions any such tactics. If a complete canvass was made by the Police Department of the whole city, instead of only the Negroes, it would be found that the real fraud is among the whites.

A Few Figures

Although only 12,827 Negroes registered in the Fall of 1916, on June 5, 1917, the draft registration was more than nine thousand. These consisted of men between 21 and 31 only. The total registration of St. Louis Colored men to date is over 10,000 and still no age limit has not gone beyond 41. About 6,000 or one-fourth of this total registration is now in the service of the United States, leaving 18,000 unenrolled; 2,000 being under 21 and 13,000 between 21 and 41 years of age. There are more than seven thousand Colored men in St. Louis over 46 years of age which indicates that the political registration should now be around the twenty thousand mark instead of 12,827. Not every man who has been called to the service of Uncle Sam was on the registration books. It is a known fact that in the War draft of August 2, when 456 men were sent from the Seventeenth Ward, only 56 were found to be registered.

Keenly Watched From Registering

The big draft registration on September 17 was carried out without a hitch within the hours prescribed by the War Department. 107,000 St. Louisans answered the many questions and signed on with Uncle Sam on that day and when the 100,000 registration places closed, that night not a man between 18 and 46 was turned away. Not one week later, when the political registration took place in the same 506 places, with less than half as many registering as was on draft day, the polls closed, in many instances, with men still waiting in line. Every effort was made to discourage the Negro to keep him from getting his name on the election books. In some cases this was carried to physical mistreatment, as in the Fifth Ward where several were clubbed, and at one poll a shotgun was used.

Every man who is lawfully registered has a right, and should vote. No man, who has this right, can be refused suffrage. Any intimidation threat and Uncle Sam guarantees protection of all citizens. These charges and threats are intended to scare the rightful voters away from the polls, they will fade away when the legislators realize that true citizens are determined to do their duty.

NOTE—The Arena, next week, will publish a general review of the candidates on the Republican ticket.
